REVISED WORKSHOP REPORT

The existing workshop report text reads as follows:

1. WORKSHOP COMMENT

Some cities in California issue building permits for the installation of EPA exempt wood cook stoves or appliances and some will not issue building permits for the same stoves or appliances. Will this workshop address the uniformity of the building permit requirements throughout San Diego County?

DISTRICT RESPONSE

No. Building permits for the installation of EPA exempt wood cook stoves or appliances are issued by the cities or counties according to local building codes. The District does not participate in developing local building codes.

This workshop is to discuss adoption of an air pollution control regulation - a federal New Source Performance Standard for particulate emissions from residential wood heaters.

The revised District response text reads as follows:
